This certificate and also, Lieut. Gregory's membership card were in the pocketbook.

Mr. Tongue stated that the pocketbook with a letter explaining the circumstances would be forwarded to Lieut. Gregory.

NEW YORK LONGSHOREMEN'S STRIKE IS FALLING TO PIECES

Eight Locals Vote to Return to Work Until December 1--President of District Council Predicts Return of All the Men by Friday--Railroad Men Still Out.

New York, Oct. 15.—With 15,000 of the 60,000 longshoremen today agreeing to accept a wage scale of 70 cents an hour, fixed by the national adjustment committee, until December 1, New York believes the backbone of the strike which has tied up the harbor several days has been broken. Eight of the fifty-three locals comprising the International Longshoremen's Association voted to return to work.

The locals announced themselves contented with the 70 cents scale until the hearing for $1 an hour is held after December 1.

John F. Reilly, president of the New York District Council of the International, and chairman of the strike committee, predicted today that by Friday all of the 60,000 longshoremen will be back on their jobs.

Another union that will return to work today, following vote last night, is the Harbor Boatmen's Union. Railroad, port and terminal workers rejected the offer of $10 a month increase, offered by the railroad administration. The men demand a 25 per cent advance. However, union leaders said, it is possible that many of the union workers will follow the example of the boatmen, despite the vote of rejection.

North river ferry boats of the Pennsylvania and Erie railroads began running today. Complete service will be restored by five o'clock this evening.

SUBMARINE WILL SUBMERGE OFF KINGSTON POINT THURSDAY

Postmaster DeWitt, Mayor Canfield and Other Officials and Notabilities to Make a Trip to the Bottom of the Hudson---Everybody Invited to Visit and Inspect the Boat.

The U. S. Navy Submarine 0-8, now at Kingston Point on a recruiting mission, will submerge at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Hudson river off Kingston Point. When the boat dives under the waters of the river Mayor Canfield, Postmaster DeWitt, President Watts of the common council, and other notables will be on board.

The submarine will be here until Friday, and the public is invited to inspect her. An account of an inspection made by the city officials Tuesday will be found on another page tonight.

The submarine will make a submerged run, and will show how she dives and rises to the surface. This is an exhibition well worth seeing as those who were fortunate to see the other submarine this summer can testify.

SAMUEL GOMPERS CONFINED TO BED

Washington, Oct. 15.—Samuel Gompers is ill in bed today with a temperature of 101 degrees. When he left the president's industrial conference after speaking yesterday afternoon, he went home to bed. Dr. Parker was called and found Gompers suffering from nervous exhaustion.

In the Gompers home, Mrs. Gompers is also in a serious condition, following a recent stroke of paralysis. Yesterday was the anniversary of the death of their daughter.

Home Bureau Tea At Hurley.

Essentially the weather is clearing so that a pleasant day will favor those who wish to attend the tea to be given by the Home Bureau members of Hurley, tomorrow, Thursday afternoon, at the beautiful old Colonial home of Miss Anna DeWitt on the Hurley road, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Such delicious refreshments as are found only in the homes of Hurley housekeepers, tea, coffee, sandwiches and cake, will be served, for the small sum of twenty-five cents.

No money can pay for the privilege of a ride at this season to this beautiful home, nor for the added privilege of visiting such a home.

VAN BUREN IN REVENUE DEPT.

Alfred D. Van Buren of this city has been appointed one of the attorneys on the legal staff of Robert N. Miller, solicitor of internal revenue at Washington, D. C., and will leave for Washington during the week. The office of the solicitor of internal revenue has under charge of the legal matters connected with the department of internal revenue under Daniel C. Mr. Van Buren received his appointment some time ago and has been assigned to some very important special work which will probably take him away from Kingston for two or three months. He will however continue to make Kingston his home and will also maintain his office in the Webster building on Fair street. His father, Augustus H. Van Buren will be in charge of his practice during his absence.

ULSTER COUNTY HOME FOR AGED SOON TO BE READY FOR OCCUPANTS

Applications Sufficient to Fill the Home—Show How Much It Is Needed---Necessary Improvements Soon to Be Under Way---Contributions Aggregate $36,000.

The Ulster County Home for the aged is an absolutely assured success, for there has already been contributed in money and property the magnificent sum of over $36,000, as appears from the list of donations printed below. Not only is it an assured success financially but also in the backing of the list of names as incorporators and directors clearly demonstrates the fact that the men behind the guns will see to it that it is established on a sound basis.

Already there have been enough applications for rooms to fill the house, showing how sorely an institution of this kind was needed in this county.

The committee having in charge the remodeling of the house have decided to have two additional bedrooms on the third floor made at once. Those who have seen the building say that it is an ideal place for a home. There are of course certain alterations which will have to be made and which will be made at once. An additional bath room will be placed on the third floor. Entrances will be made with each side of the house on each floor. A single heating plant instead of the double one now there will be installed. Three rooms will be cut up so as to make two, one for the dining room and another for the kitchen. One of the stairways will also be taken down, a two hundred gallon hot water boiler will be installed so as to provide sufficient hot water at all times for the residents. The wall paper will be removed and all of the rooms will be redecorated the same color, to make the building attractive, comfortable and home like. Work will probably be commenced Monday next as it is hoped to have the Home opened and in running order by Thanksgiving Day.

The incorporation papers were taken to Albany today to obtain the approval of a Supreme Court judge and the State Board of Charities after which they will be filed in the office of the secretary of state and a duplicate copy with the county clerk of this county.

A list of the incorporators and directors is as follows:

No Cases Ready.

No cases were ready for trial this morning at the call of the day calendar and court went into recess until 12:30 o'clock when further cases were added to the day calendar. The jury was excused until 2 o'clock, as there was nothing ready until that time. Judge William D. Brinler, Jr., appeared for William Kemble in the action brought against him by Hattie Weeks, an action for assault, and asked for dismissal of the complaint, there being no appearance for plaintiff. The motion for dismissal with costs was granted.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE IN A STORM

Backed If Not Wrecked, By Disunion and High Feeling Engendered By the Gompers Resolution.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 15.—President Wilson's industrial conference was racked by storms today.

With President Gompers absent on a plea of illness and with the feeling in the labor group that this illness came "at a particularly inauspicious time," with the public group sorely strained in its attempt to modify the intensity of the light between the employers and labor and with the employers group impatiently ready to come to an issue with the labor delegates, the day passed in hectic fashion. The single fact stands out that the conference will not break up on the famous Gompers' resolution demanding arbitration of the steel strike.

The opening hour, 9:30—found none of the groups ready to go into session. The "public" group had arisen at seven o'clock and earlier and had held a group session at 8 o'clock.

The scene in the auditorium at the Pan-American building was unique. The delegates milled around the room from table to table. The conviction was general that the labor group might bolt the conference and break up President Wilson's last resort to secure industrial peace. The speaker's platform was empty except for a single secretary. In the rear of the room several hundred spectators, representing the outside public, sat in wonder. Newspaper correspondents were forced to move around from man to man, getting what head or tail they could from scores of conversations under way.

The getting of reliable news became so difficult that the reporters held an impromptu meeting at a press table with Chairman Lane and got him to appoint a committee of conference delegates to meet the correspondents and give them whatever news was available.

From time to time one group or another would retire from the room and hold conferences on some plan which had been unofficially advanced to avert the threatened crash.

No one cared to present a plan that might not be adopted and this, in a way, explained the failure of Chairman Lane to call the conference to order.

Most of the delegates were still in the Pan-American building when, over the wires of the International News Service it was made known that a nationwide strike of coal miners had been called.

In the various shifting efforts to save the situation intense bitterness developed. Heated speeches were made; the mask of politeness fell off. The employers openly charged on the floor that politics were at the root of matters. The public responded, its resentment against this charge being voiced by Thomas Chadbourne, Chairman Lane, after he had made a ruling which seemed to have brought the great clash to hand, changed his opinion after a chorus of groans had risen from the labor table. For several minutes, before Lane had reversed himself, the labor leaders were crying "original motion; original motion," which meant that they wanted a vote on the Gompers resolution.

The Plumb plan came to light during a lull in the storm.

A resolution was presented by the labor group asking that the conference declare itself in favor of permitting labor to share in the responsibility and management of public service corporations, and that employees of private corporations ought to be represented on the board of directors.

The resolution went in general course to the committee of fifteen.

A plan of the public group, presented by "Barney" Barnum, finally prevented the conference from becoming a raging storm.

SOCIETY NOTES.

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered Miss Margaret Steward at her home on Albany avenue, Monday evening, in honor of her 18th birthday. In appreciation of the beautiful colorings of autumn, the room was artistically decorated with autumn leaves and harvest apples. A cake adorned with 18 lighted candles added to the beauty and effect of the lighted room. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games.

At 11 o'clock a very inviting request was served, after which dancing was continued by the young folks. At a late hour the guests departed rejoicing and wishing for many more happy birthdays. Those present were, the Misses Evelyn Dolson, Edith Kline, Theda Miller, Laura and Nellie Fields, Irma Canine, Anna Sleight, Margaret Steward, Rogers Hardette, Jack Koeke, Leo Turner, Robert Case, George Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steward, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steward and Mr. and Mrs. Buster Jennings.

ALL MINERS OF BITUMINOUS COAL ORDERED TO GO ON STRIKE NOVEMBER 1

Call Issued This Afternoon Involves 400,000 Workers and Is Intended to Close Down Every Soft Coal Mine in This Country.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15.—Call for a nationwide strike of soft coal miners was issued today by John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America. Unless government agencies are able to avert the walkout, more than 400,000 bituminous miners will lay down their tools November 1 under the strike call.

The strike order follows failure of the recent convention of bituminous coal operators and miners to reach an agreement on demands of the miners. The original demand for sixty percent increase in wages, five day week and six hour day, presented at the wage conferences in Buffalo and Philadelphia, still stand.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL CAMPAIGN OPENS HEADQUARTERS IN THE ARMORY

Ulster County Has a Record to Maintain and Will Not Fall Short This Time---Greatest Need is for Efficient Workers---Chances to Volunteer in a Good Cause.

Headquarters for the Third Roll Call Campaign of the American Red Cross have been established at the Kingston armory. The Roll Call Campaign telephone number is Kingston 1932. Headquarters are in charge of Chairman Frank Cuykendall of the Roll Call Campaign Committee.

The chairman of each township will report the progress made in his town to the county headquarters. The work throughout the city and county will be correlated in this way so that the Red Cross appeal may be brought to every man and woman in Ulster county.

Vice-Chairman John E. Mahar said this morning that he is very confident of the over-whelming success of this campaign. "Ulster county and Kingston," said Chairman Mahar, "have always stood well toward the top in their record of response to the needs of the American Red Cross. We find everywhere evidence that Red Cross enthusiasm is still at a high pitch."

On October 1st in connection with the Welcoming celebration in honor of our returning soldiers and sailors it appeared very clearly that Kingston and Ulster county do not quickly forget the sacrifices that were made in achieving success in the world war.

Americans do not forget quickly and all our people realize that many obligations growing out of the war are still outstanding.

This is especially true in the case of the American Red Cross. The work of the Red Cross is that of healing the injuries that war inflicts.

This work of healing necessarily takes a long time for its completion. The same men who determined the policies and control the management of the Red Cross during the war have found that a special fund of $5,000,000 in addition to the revenues derived from the membership of the executive committee of the Federation of Women's Club will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Kingston City Library. As this is the executive meeting before the general meeting to be held on Saturday afternoon, a full attendance is desired.

STATE W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

(Contributed)

Saturday afternoon punctually at 2 the afternoon session was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ella A. Boole.

Mrs. L. M. De Silva presented the financial report of state headquarters and the mille of dimes. Ulster county's share in raising the mille of dimes was $94.

Having just arrived, the officers of the Young Peoples' Branch were introduced by the secretary, Mrs. Maud B. Perkins, of Syracuse.

Wonderfully interesting were the facts brought out by Mrs. Martha M. Allen, national superintendent of medical temperance in a short address in regard to drug addiction and patent medicines.

Thrill, the virtue which must quickly become a part of our nation's code of honor to meet the problems of the world, which have been thrust upon us, was the topic of the very able address given by Mrs. Martha Van Rensselaer, department of home economics, Cornell University.

Reminiscences of their first convention from 1871, the time of the first convention in Syracuse, until that of Jamestown in 1917, were given by delegates who had attended. This was one of the most enjoyable periods of the convention.

The subscription shower for the state paper, "Woman's Temperance Work," while the musical director, Mrs. Frances Graham sang "How Dear to Our Heart is the Steady Subscriber." Forty subscriptions were credited to Ulster county.

The session closed with the benediction.

Saturday Evening.

The session was given over to the Young Peoples' Branch of which Mrs. Maud B. Perkins, who is the efficient general secretary, presided. The opening song service was given by the Boulevard M. B. Booster Choir, a chorus of children, whose sweet, fresh voices delighted all.

Mrs. Boole then gave the gavel of the convention into the hands of Mrs. Perkins and the scripture lesson was read by Paul Merritt, superintendent of Eastwood, New York, superintendent of Sunday school work, and prayer was offered by his sister, Miss Ada I. Merritt, the corresponding secretary.

At the convention of the Young Peoples' Federation a pageant was given and at the special request of Mrs. Boole, three of the scenes from the victory pageant were given by the young people.

Mrs. Perkins followed with a short address in which she emphasized their threefold pledge, "Trusting in God's help, I solemnly promise to abstain from the use of all alcoholic liquors, including beer, wine and cider; from tobacco in every form and from profanity."

Merton E. Jennings of East Syracuse, superintendent of publicity, who has been overseas, gave a short talk on what the Y. P. B. meant to a soldier.

Another superintendent, Albert Foree, of Ithaca, N. Y., told of his experience in the naval station at Chicago and during his period of leave, he helped organize new branches of the Y. P. B.

Miss Fern Davis, who has won the diamond medal in medal contests, spoke briefly on the relationship of the Y. P. B. to the W. C. T. U.

An address, "Standing at Attention," was effectively delivered by Sydney Ayres, Penn Yan, musical director of the Y. P. B.

Miss Maud Pratt, the treasurer, made an address for funds to carry on the work.

"The special treat of every convention is to have the musical director, Mrs. Frances Graham, sing 'The Pensive Old Piano' which was claimed for their meeting by the young people, and was given at the close of their program, accompanied by Mrs. Tenney.

Paul Merritt dismissed the session with prayer.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE TOWN

Conditions in This Country Will Return to Normal Just as Soon as the People Return to Normal Conditions of Living and Thinking.

"They have been having some strike down in New York," remarked the customer, dropping the newspaper he was reading.

"You said it," agreed the busy barber, "and the conditions of things reminds me of what some one said the other day."

"What's that?" asked the customer.

"He said that instead of this being the United States of America it was getting to be the United States of America," explained the barber.

"And he was not far wrong at that," commented the customer, "for it seems to be more fashionable to strike than to work."

"Well, we should worry," said the barber, "as long as our customers don't decide to go on strike and wear their hair long."

"Judging from the high cost of clothes," retorted the customer, "it would not be a bad idea for some of us to allow our hair to grow long enough to take the place of a coat and shirt."

"That puts me in mind of a friends who was growing a beard," said the barber, "and when questioned about the matter said that he had been in the habit of buying the best neckties, but they had jumped so in price he could not afford them, and for that reason wearing a lengthy beard would hide from the inquiring eyes of the world just what kind of a necktie, if any, he was wearing."

"Well, joking aside, it is a serious condition that confronts the country today," said the customer.

"Well, there is no use in getting all het up over the matter," retorted the barber, "for the old world will be wagging along long after we have passed on."

"That may all be so," said the customer, "but those thoughts don't help pay the bills."

"Maybe not," confessed the barber, "but they sure do help you keep from worrying about them."

"You don't seem to worry much," agreed the customer, "but when do you think there is going to be a return to normal conditions throughout the country?"

"When the people of our country get back to normal conditions of living and thinking," replied the barber.

S. S. CONVENTION OPENED TUESDAY

County Organization Meeting in Clinton Avenue Methodist Church—Large Registration at Opening Session.

The annual Ulster county Sunday school convention opened on Tuesday afternoon at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. The opening registration of delegates from the various Sunday schools of Ulster county was excellent. The opening session was devoted to a devotional service led by the Rev. E. A. Bookhout of Port Ewen; to three special conferences, and an address, given by the Rev. G. O. Wilsey of Ashokan, whose subject was "True Evangelism."

During the early afternoon the delegates and representatives gathered for the valuable practical and spiritual conferences. The Children's Division Workers, were helpfully led by the Rev. A. Van der Meer of Woodstock.

The Rev. A. S. Cole of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church led the young people's Division Workers in their conference. The section of Adult Division Workers found an able and efficient leader in the Rev. William B. Oliver of Albany, a member of the state committee. In all of these special conferences the discussions proved of particular value.

Throughout the afternoon the singing was led in a spirited fashion by the Rev. A. Van der Meer of Woodstock.

Rev. Wilsey Speaks.

The main address of the afternoon was given by the Rev. G. O. Wilsey of Ashokan, whose subject was "True Evangelism." There was no "preach" about either the subject matter of Mr. Wilsey's address nor its mode of delivery. On the contrary he spoke as a genuine man, a Christian man, and one possessed of good fundamental ideas. He described the present day evangelism that makes its objective to be the gathering into the church of the most noble members whether or not they were regenerated and wanting actually to lead a different and a truly Christian life. And the speaker did not blame the condition on the laymen entirely but admitted frankly that there was altogether too much preaching where something else was substituted for the Gospel of Christ; where the preacher apologized for the Gospel of Christ, or where he simply cut out the Gospel of Christ.

Mr. Wilsey believed firmly that there should be no real revival, no true evangelism unless God had something to do with it. The churches are about to enter into a campaign to win a million souls for the Holy Spirit. It was a mistake for us to think that we can get the Holy Spirit to help us in our plans, or to have the Holy Spirit. The truth was that the Holy Spirit must take possession of us. We must learn to say and to mean with the voice "Lord, I'll do whatever You want me to do. I'll go wherever You want me to go."

Again the only true evangelism is that where God has all to do with it, so that He uses us as avenues through which His spirit may reach others. And the word of God must play a chief part in true evangelism, and that our preachers may not omit to warn their congregations that for sins committed they can expect only their just punishment, made merciful by a loving God.

Open confession of Christ was named as another vital part of true evangelism, and Mr. Wilsey noted that after the women had been made whole by silently touching the hem of Christ's garment, he insisted upon her telling of that fact, in other words that she openly confess Him. When God helps us, He expects us to tell others of His goodness to us, and if we are not willing to do that we are not fully appreciating His goodness and goodness. His thought was further illustrated when the speaker noted that in more than one instance two men, one a Christian, the other a non-believer, both living moral, philanthropic lives, could not be distinguished from each other except as the Christian man was willing to openly confess his allegiance to Christ. The speaker closed by reminding his hearers that God has a plan for His world, but if His followers are not willing to tell of Him and His plan to those about them, then even though the plan be God's it must fail for lack of a proper approach to those not already understanding and living according to that plan.

At the close of the afternoon session it was announced that at 6:20 o'clock the ladies of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church would serve upper in the lecture room of the church to the delegates and the workers in the big Sunday school here now in progress.

And a very attractive looking upper room it was that the guests entered, with the tables beautifully decorated with flowers, and set out with delicious food.

Report of Drive.

Following the repast the Sunday school drive workers were helpfully addressed by the Rev. William B. Oliver of Albany, a member of the state committee. In all of these special conferences the discussions proved of particular value.

The opening of the evening session of the Sunday School Convention on Tuesday was marked by a decided innovation that was both interesting and profitable as showing what can actually be accomplished in the way of teaching and holding the interest of a class of young girls. Miss Mauterstock of the Trinity M. E. Sunday school was present with her class of several young girls, the class being fully organized, and the president of the class presiding. Miss Mauterstock made a few prefatory remarks, explaining the name of the class, "The Sunshine Class" of the Trinity M. E. Sunday school, and telling how the girls were actually studying the Bible. She then turned the class over to the members, and the president called for the class song, "There's Sunshine in My Soul," which was sung with spirit. A prayer was then offered by Miss Mauterstock. One of the girls next read a portion of the thirteenth chapter of 1st Corinthians, after which the secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were duly approved and accepted. The roll call was given by each member reciting a Bible verse, then in unison the class recited twenty-five Bible verses, each verse beginning with a letter from the alphabet excepting the letter X. This was followed by a recital of the books of the Old Testament, given with alacrity, after which what would correspond to a spelling match between the girls was held, the names of the books of the Bible being given instantly or else the pupil hesitating having to take her seat. The same was done with the books of the New Testament. The exercise closed with the singing of "God Be With Us 'Till We Meet Again."

The first speaker for the evening was the Rev. P. C. Weyant, pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church, who said that he would like to call attention to the fact that interesting and clever as was the exhibition just given by Miss Mauterstock's class, with the grip it had on the girls, the actual results of this Bible study and interest had been that with one or two exceptions all of the members of the class had been received into either full membership in the church or into the probationary class. They had two compelling objectives, to know the word of God and to become Christian girls, two of the highest possible ideals.

Mr. Weyant then went on to call attention to the need of religious training for our children; as careful a religious training as we give them intellectually, lest they become over-balanced. The speaker considered that the time would come when all of the Protestant Churches would be together on the fundamental basis of the Scriptures and the recognition of Christ, the Son of God, which would be the things taught by preacher and teacher. In addition to a knowledge of the Scriptures gained by reading the same, the speaker noted the further need of right interpretation of the same.

As a forceful comparison Mr. Weyant called attention to the constitution of the United States as standing for pure Americanism, but of which hundreds and thousands of men and women gifted with the ballot but not understanding or speaking English were quite ignorant. These men do not know where America came from nor where it is going, and if they had their way they would tear down the United States government, said the speaker. Consequently they could not interpret the constitution of the United States. The same is true of the Christian man or woman's knowledge of the Bible, or rather lack of it. If this constitution of Christianity is unknown it certainly cannot properly be interpreted, yet we are told that "The words I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life."

Mr. Weyant considered that we had cause for thanksgiving in that the war had loosened the German brand on our theology, and had made us realize how pernicious it was to be so ignorant that it was possible for our teachers to teach almost anything so long as they do not label what they teach.

The speaker closed by warning his fellow preachers of the demand of the future for action, emphasizing the fact that they were now facing a world crisis. It is imperative that there be the right kind of teaching during these troubled times, and that the teacher have his or her heart purified and enlightened by communion with God. "The king's business demands haste," the final speaker for Tuesday's session.

Highway Commissioner Greene in a recent speech said that New York state had the best system of improved highways in the world. No better compliment could be paid the Republicans who built them. Commissioner Greene was appointed in April and all he has done yet is award a few contracts. Oh yes, he also said that he had played no politics in the department. This is getting to be a stock phrase and if he continues somebody may say "Me thinks he doth protest too much."

It is perhaps as well that a lot of things that shouldn't happen are taking place just now. Apparently they were in the air and had to come. Before long, however, they will be listed and those in violation of the rights-of the people and destructive to law and order will be stopped at once. And thank God there are enough of us here who when the time comes will help protect our institutions from the attack of the wild and wilful. There is no doubt about the overwhelming majority in this country being in favor of those things which assure common decency.

Every time a new book comes out, if you want to improve your mind, read an old one. A woman down on Long Island made this suggestion and it is particularly forcible just now when the mowers are on strike and the magazines are having their troubles. We may be old-fashioned but nevertheless the books we remember are the old ones, which, when all is said and done, furnish the themes for a great many of the best sellers. However, this, too, shall pass and it will be only a matter of time when we will commence to get more of "She gazed at the blue sky."

Democratic women are already in a mixup. Up-state women having had some experience refuse to be dominated by those selected by Tammany Hall to take charge of everything above the Bronx. The up-state women have been told by some one that Tammany works in mysterious ways; its wonders to perform. At any rate the first meeting of the women developed a squabble and a majority of them declared that the so-called social welfare problems had been overplayed and were not in accord with the wishes of either employee or employer. It was ever thus when Tammany tries its hand at anything constructive.

CURIOUS LOGIC.

In a recent public address Dr. Henry Leffman, the distinguished chemist, remarked that as soon as Noah found a dry bit of ground after the flood he set about growing grapes to make wine apparently with Divine permission. To this, according to the Philadelphia Record Dr. H. W. Topp, district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, replied, "There are plenty of vineyards, but their produce gives no one the right to drink. It might have been all right for Robinson Crusoe to plant a vineyard and drink wine from the grapes it produced, but Crusoe was living alone. The moment he found another human being on the island he would be forced morally to consider the effect of his drunkenness on the fellow creature or creatures."

This curious logic, for notwithstanding the Rev. Topp's concern for the welfare of others, the inevitable conclusion of his argument is that drunkenness or any other sin is blameless provided it is committed in such complete privacy that it will be known only to the sinner. In other words, the sin is not in the act itself but in presenting it to become public and thus setting a bad example or in some other way injuring others. One would expect such reasoning from a selfish despicable person, scarcely likely leading a double life, rather than from a teacher of morals. The Topp's view is an interesting illustration of the logic in which those first Christians who attempted to explain away passages of Scripture treating of wine drinking and wine drinking as a deadly sin.

drinking in moderation, quite the contrary in fact, and it is much wiser to look elsewhere for prohibitionist ammunition.

REMAKING THE WORLD.

Lieut. Dawson's Lecture Will Deal With Reconstruction Problems.

"Remaking the World" will be the topic on which Coningsby Dawson, the soldier novelist, will speak at the Kingston High School auditorium, Friday evening, October 24, at 8:15 o'clock. The lecture, which is given under the auspices of the Kingston Chapter of School Women's Club of the Hudson Valley, is not a war lecture but a portrayal by a great descriptive writer, himself a soldier of the tragedy through which we all have passed.

The proceeds of the lecture will be for the medical attendance for children of the public schools who have defective eyes, teeth or other physical defects and whose parents are unable to care for them.

Coningsby Dawson can tell an interesting story, having been in the occupied territory of Germany, in France at the time of her after-war era, and in England. It is not a war lecture, but a story of reconstruction problems, a thrilling vibrant account of the whole torn era through which we have passed.

MEN'S SOCIAL.

For Every Member of First Dutch Church Thursday Evening.

The annual men's social of the First Dutch Church will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. While this is known as the men's social it is not for the men only but every member of the congregation of both sexes. It is called the men's social because they assume all responsibility, make the arrangements and do the serving. The feature of the social will be an address by Major E. D. B. Louchman on his interesting experiences overseas. This is the first opportunity that the public has been given to hear Major Louchman speak on this topic. There will be music by a male quartet, and refreshments will be served. Every man, woman and child of the congregation is invited to be present that evening. This social is an annual event and is held on the anniversary of the burning of the church by the British in 1777.

EFFICIENT MAN IS RENOMINATED

George Schick Has Creditably Represented the Wilbur Section and Should be Returned to Office.

GEORGE SCHICK.

Realizing that George Schick has always worked for the interests of the taxpayers, the Republicans of the Thirteenth ward have again nominated him for supervisor. The Thirteenth ward knows George Schick, and he knows the Thirteenth ward, for he has been actively identified with it during his entire life time.

Mr. Schick was born in Wilbur, the son of Casper Schick. At the age of 14 years he entered the employ of Spardie Brothers, papering barrels at the old James cement works in the town of Esopus. The following years he worked for George Turner, fixing barrels in the old Sherman & Weeks plant. At the age of 16 years he entered the grocery store of D. H. Zoller, and has been employed in that place of business since.

Mr. Schick is as closely identified with the social life as with the political life of the ward. He is an active member of Twelfth Street Hose Company and is also a member of the Hudson Valley Firemen's Association and the Loyal Order of Moose. He has always been ready to give of his time and talent in the entertainment of the people of his ward, and on numerous occasions has taken part in the Holy Name minstrels, acting as interlocutor.

His record in the board of supervisors, in which he served in former years, is spotless. He has attended strictly to the work to be done and at all times the interests of the taxpayers were his interests. His untiring service is appreciated by the voters of the Thirteenth ward, who should send him back to the board of supervisors this year by a large majority.

IN THE THEATERS

Good Films This Evening—"Fall of Babylon" Tomorrow.

Bryant Washburn, a popular Paramount star, has been provided with one of the best opportunities of his career in "A Very Good Young Man," his latest Paramount starring vehicle, which will be shown at Keene's tonight. He plays the part of a young man who has none of the vices which are prevalent in most men of today, such as drinking, gambling, smoking, etc. When he proposes to his sweetheart she fears that he is too good to be true and that as he hasn't sowed his wild oats, the bad streak in him might crop out after they are married and spoil their happiness. So she turns him down in spite of her love for him. The very good young man, determined to win the girl, decides that the only way is to "go all the gait," so to speak. The outcome of this decision will tickle the risibilities of any audience under the sun. The supporting cast is excellent. Larry Seamon in "Between the Acts" a laughable comedy and Gaumonts latest news will be other specials on this excellent program.

"The Praise Agent," co-starring Arthur Ashley and Dorothy Green, will be shown at the Auditorium tonight. Pathe news and Ved-a-Vil movies are other specials to be shown tonight.

Tomorrow "The Prodigal Wife" featuring Mary Boland and Lucy Cotton telling the story of the rebirth of a woman's soul through love. From all accounts D. W. Griffith has outdone his former achievements and broken even his own splendid record by his colossal production, "The Fall of Babylon," the first showing of which will take place at the Kingston Opera House for three days commencing tomorrow afternoon.

A special musical accompaniment is one of the big features of the production, while the photography is said to be the most beautiful thus far offered by Mr. Griffith. In addition to this mighty spectacle "Kyrin," the dancing marvel will appear in person.

Playing three distinct roles in her latest Arcturion picture, "The Avalanche," beautiful Elsie Ferguson will be seen to excellent advantage in this excellent production by Ouida Bergere of Gertrude Atherton's latest novel which will be displayed with all needed accessories and music at Keene's tomorrow and Friday.

Get All the Heat out of your Coal

Save Coal Sensibly

Alive, clean, clinker-free fire—the sure result of the exclusive Boynton Square Pot construction—takes all the heat there is in the coal and sends it into your rooms. That's economy and good judgment.

You can cut down the amount of coal you burn in your present equipment by using less heat, but you won't find much pleasure in the saving.

It's better—much better—to have all the comfort of warmth by installing a Boynton Square Pot Furnace or Boiler. Though very easy on the coal pile (saving 15% to 25%) it protects you from the misery of indoor shivering.

WAWARSING'S MAN IS WIDELY KNOWN

And Chester Young's Townsmen Will Not Repeat This Year the Mistake They Made Two Years Ago.

CHESTER YOUNG.

The town of Wawarsing's next supervisor is to be a man who is known in every part of Ulster county. Two years ago Chester Young was the Republican candidate for the office of supervisor of the town of Wawarsing, but was defeated. Today the people of that town realize the mistake they made two years ago, and are going to elect him.

Mr. Young was born in Napanoch, where he now resides, forty-two years ago. He is a son of the late ex-sheriff George Young, and for years no family has labored more earnestly for the welfare of the town of Wawarsing and the success of the Republican nominees than the Young family. Chester Young received his early education in the district school. During the time that his father was sheriff of this county, Mr. Young resided in Kingston, and attended Kingston Academy. He later attended the Worcester, Mass., Academy and Cornell University, which institution has always been a favorite with young men of the town of Wawarsing. He graduated from Cornell in 1898 with the degree of bachelor of science.

Being interested in the study of agriculture, he spent five years with the state department of agriculture, and for one year he was connected with the state prison department. Eight winters were spent by him in the south, where he represented a syndicate engaged in buying and selling timber. Mr. Young was engaged for the time being of the subject. Besides his large farm in Napanoch, Mr. Young is also connected with Dillon B. Humphrey of Napanoch in the paper mills of Humphrey & Young and the John B. Russell Knife Works at Napanoch. Mr. Young is actively connected with the Ulster County Farm Bureau, being its second president, and having held that honor for the past four years.

Mr. Young's personal, business, political and all other qualifications are of the highest order, and of such to make him well capable to be the supervisor of the town of Wawarsing. He has always been an active Republican and has never failed to work for the success of the Republican ticket, town, county, state or national.

Industrial Training Talk.

There will be an interesting discussion at the high school tonight which ought to attract the parents of every boy that goes to school in this city, whether it be to grammar school or to the high school. Fathers, particularly for those who want to see their boys qualify for some worth while position in life, ought not to miss this opportunity to learn of the present equipment, and methods used for the practical training of our boys, and girls too, for that matter, as well as for their further development and extension. An opportunity will be given any one who has a suggestion to offer or a criticism to make, to present his or her views. Prof. Service of the Industrial Training Department of the High School will give the principal talk this evening at 8 o'clock at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association at the High School, to which a cordial invitation to all parents is extended.

sessions was Dr. Oliver of Albany, the state commissioner, and he took for his subject, "The Chief Needs of Sunday School Workers." First of all, Dr. Oliver is a real man, and it might be stated in passing that if there were more such men in our Sunday schools, there would be many more boys, for they would feel instinctively that there was something to the Sunday school if it actually held the interest of men of Dr. Oliver's type.

Dr. Oliver said that since they were there, it was evident that all of the Sunday school workers were quite familiar with the A. B. C.'s of Sunday school work, but he wanted to carry them further, so he would take up five D. E.'s of the work.

To begin with he warned his hearers that they were members of a losing army, for large as was the enrollment of our Sunday schools it was far short of its previous record. So the first D. E. was to double the enrollment, for too many were either slipping out of the Sunday school or not coming in. He gave some surprising statistics to show the enormous number of people, especially young people who would naturally belong to Protestant churches or Sunday schools, in this state, but who actually belong or go to no church or Sunday school. So it was the duty of each and every one to bring into the Sunday school one more member, at the very least.

The next D. E. was the necessity for deeper enthusiasm. The speaker told of a mother who came to him when he was speaking some distance from where she lived and begged him to try and get hold of her boys. Asked where they were, she said one lived in the Bronx, the other in Brooklyn. Further inquiry developed the fact that she had had one of these boys in her home for twenty-one years, the other for twenty-two years, yet she was going to a complete stranger to get him to try and persuade her boys to lead Christian lives when she had never really tried to so persuade them herself. "Deeper enthusiasm," Dr. Oliver, "and the very word, 'enthusiasm' means 'God in you'."

A third D. E. was to develop energy. This was illustrated by a story wherein the speaker said he might not have the exact figures, but they were approximately correct. He was going through one of the big Bethlehem steel mills, with a friend holding a responsible position therein. As they walked along they kicked a small piece of iron, which the friend said was worth about twenty-five cents as it laid there but which, if converted into watch springs would be worth about $1,500. Greater energy on the part of teachers was necessary, according to the speaker if he or she was to mould the pupils into the watch-spring value rather than be left as the small piece of iron.

The fourth D. E. was "Demand"

Experience." How could one teach another what they themselves had never experienced, was the query, and what right had teachers to try to teach in the realm of the soul what they did not know and had not themselves experienced?

Finally, as the last D. E. Dr. Oliver cited deciding for eternity. As an illustration of this point, the speaker told a beautiful story of his own life, when a little lad, his home, he said, stood back on a hill, the grounds being terraced down to the street, some distance away.

It was his childish joy, in winter, to start at the top, make a good, hard snow ball, roll it to the edge of the terrace and over, so that it would accumulate snow as it rolled down to the next flat surface of a lower terrace, and so on until it finally landed, a huge ball on the wall over the street.

He was doing this one day, having started with a particularly hard ball, which his small mittened fingers had pressed carefully into shape, when his "little mother came out" to join in the sport. Finally the two of them got the ball to the wall, where it stood bigger than the little lad. After resting a bit, the "little mother" said she thought it would be great sport to then dig in to the big ball and see if they could find the one small hard ball with which they started. As the snow was dry, this was fairly soon accomplished, and there at the very heart of the great white mass was the original ball, hard and still bearing the marks of the mittened fingers.

Then his mother said to him, "That is just what you and I are doing. God has given you to me, to mould and form into a fine man, and I wonder if after a while when you have finally gone out into the big world, with its noise and rush like the road below us, far away from me, as we are away from where we started, I will be able to find deep down in your heart the same true, loving boy, upon whose life I have tried to make the right impression, that stands before me now." While those were not her exact words, they conveyed her meaning, said the speaker. And that was the lesson that the speaker wanted to drive home. That the teacher should make just such a deep, close and lasting impression for good and for God on the hearts of her or his pupils.

PRESIDENT SLEPT WELL LAST NIGHT

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 15.—President Wilson enjoyed another good night's rest and although he had a slight headache today, his condition continues to improve, according to the official bulletin issued from the White House by Rear Admirals Grayson and Stitt, and Dr. Sterling Ruffin. The trouble which caused a night of restlessness on Monday did not recur during the night, it was stated.

Amplifying the bulletin Dr. Grayson repeated that his program of complete rest and quiet as possible still is being adhered to, and that practically no official business is allowed to come to the president's attention. The president, he said, was extremely anxious about the progress of the industrial conference, in session here, and has asked repeatedly for information. Dr. Grayson explained that he has been so busy that he has been unable to acquaint himself with the work of the conference and that when he told the president this today, the patient repeated his constant assertion that Grayson was a "poor man to do business with."

Dr. H. A. Fowler, the Washington specialist, who was summoned when the president experienced a restless night with pain from a swollen prostate gland, will be called in from time to time to see that there is no recurrence of the trouble, it was stated.

Referring to the letter appearing over his signature in the New York World today, Dr. Grayson admitted its authenticity but stated he had not intended it for publication.

Sunday Concerts Appreciated.

Evidently it has become a matter of civic pride that Kingston is to have a series of six Sunday afternoon concerts such as are to be given by the Kingston Symphony Orchestra at the Keeney theatre during the next six months, with the October concert taking place next Sunday afternoon. As the season draws near when autoing and walking for pleasure, two most popular occupations for Sunday afternoons, become increasingly unpleasant because of cold or storm, these concerts will be more and more appreciated. While their programs will not be given over to the most classic music, such as to be heard at the symphonic concerts, the music to be heard will be such as will prove restful and inspiring, quite in keeping with the day. Judging from the advance sale of season tickets, $1.50 for the six concerts, with the privilege of reserved seats, these concerts are being appreciated at their full value. The full program for Sunday's concert will very soon be published in The Freeman.

THE RHAPSODY IN TWO ACTS
"THE FALL OF BABYLON"

The story of a brilliant people who were dust when the Great Character was born; who hungered for food and love and happiness. EVEN AS YOU AND I.

They built a marvelous city, Babylon the Mighty, with massive walls that only treachery could reduce.

A lover, the good Belshazzar, wore the royal robe, torn from him in death by the perfidious, the schemers who betrayed the city and enslaved a people that they might humiliate their Ruler--EVEN AS TODAY.

And a wild, lovable little sweetheart from the Mountains who adored the King and lover a singer, might have saved them all.

But there was laughter, and wine, and feasting, and romantic plans.

It is the story of today as well as yesterday. The story of you and me.

"THERE AINT NO SUBJECT"

But Mr. Cartwright delivered an interesting address, just the same, on "Enjoying One's Religion and Doing Effective Work."

F. D. Cartwright, superintendent of young people's work of the State Sunday School Association, delivered the principal address at this morning's session of the Ulster County Sunday School Association which is being held in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mr. Cartwright refrained from having the subject of his address announced for the reason that "there aint no subject," as he put it. He said that he would talk about Christians who like to have a good time, instead of the Christians who go about wearing long faces. He briefly commented upon the report previously submitted by county young people's superintendent, Mr. Cartwright said that in order to keep the young people in the Sunday school it is necessary for the Sunday school folks to make the Sunday school interesting. He told of a returned soldier who had given up going to Sunday school because it was the same thing over and over again every Sunday. This young man said that he knew just what was going to take place every Sunday before he went to school. He knew just what the superintendent was going to say, because he said the same thing every Sunday, and he knew what hymns were going to be sung, because with very few exceptions the same songs had been sung at Sunday school for the past twelve years. In working for the young people, Mr. Cartwright said that the Sunday school leaders should work with the young people, permitting them to take charge of the classes and do the work while the teachers acted as visitors.

The question as to what to do for boys and girls, said the speaker, had started a search for a magic cure. As a result of this organizations apart from the church had sprung up over night doing the work that the Sunday schools should and could do. These organizations, citing the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, are doing fine work, said he, principally because they have good leaders. The problem of finding good leaders has always been a big one with the Sunday schools. Other organizations, he remarked, have no difficulty in finding such leaders because they take trained Sunday school leaders. Mr. Cartwright said that he was not criticizing the organizations for this, but was criticizing the Sunday schools for not training their leaders for their own work. Sunday schools, said he, had failed to put up the bigness of the opportunity to them. Mr. Cartwright closed his address by giving a very excellent description and explanation of the Sunday School Camp which is held each year at Lake Geneva to train leaders for Sunday school work.

The morning's session was presided over by the Rev. Ernest Clapp of New Paltz, vice president of the county organization. Encouraging reports were submitted by the treasurer, William H. Cornell of this city, and the superintendent, Rev. Henry W. Brink of Gardiner. A report of the activities of the Children's Division was given by Miss Maye Osterhout of Saugerties, while Mrs. Alice Crispell of New Paltz told of her work in the Young People's Division during the past year. Mrs. Crispell explained that the name of her division had been changed from the Secondary Division to the Young People's Division, which includes Sunday school scholars between the ages of 12 and 24 years. She made an urgent request that Sunday school superintendents be more diligent in sending in reports to her.

The vice-president announced the appointment of the following committees:

Nominating, Rev. E. A. Bookhout, Sylvanus Van Aken and Mrs. Watson.

Risely; resolutions, E. P. Cole.

The morning's session was concluded by a few remarks concerning the Sunday school campaign by Mr. Oliver, who is working in this district for the State Association. In his address, Mr. Oliver mentioned the fact that there are now fifteen Bolshevik Sunday schools in Brooklyn, all of which are using the graded system in their teaching, and that these schools were conducting a campaign to increase this number of schools to three hundred. He said that it was a mistake to deport these people or their leaders, but that the Christian Sunday schools should solve the Bolshevik problem.

Lunch was served this noon by the ladies of the Clinton Avenue Church.

STAR BOXING BOUTS THURSDAY

At Second Smoker of Kingston Athletic Club—Two First Class Bouta Instead of One, With Fast Semi-Final—Tickets on Sale Now.

The second smoker of the Kingston Athletic Club to be held Thursday evening, October 23, in Griffith's Hall on lower Hasbrouck avenue, will be one of the best ever seen in this vicinity, and boxing fans have a treat in store. Interest centers around the two eight round bouts that have been arranged for.

Joe Dundee of Poughkeepsie has been matched with Al Delmont of Newark, N. J., for eight rounds. Both men are exceptionally fast, and a rattling good bout may be expected. The second star bout will be that staged between Willie Rose of Newburgh and Young Jim Jeffries of Newark, N. J. These boys met at the first smoker for the six round semi-final and put up such a fast scrap that those who saw it want to see them over a longer route. Both boys were also anxious to meet again and each believes he had the Indian sign on the other. They will step eight fast rounds.

The semi-final will be staged between Battling Kelly of New York and Young Jack Dempsey of Newark, N. J. This ought to be good.

Several local boxers will also meet in the preliminary bouts, and there will be some vaudeville features.

Some of the women boxing fans of the city have expressed a desire to see the bouts and it is likely that seats will be reserved for them.

Tickets for the smoker are now on sale and may be obtained at Dulin's store, Ryan's barber shop, and Sammons's lunch room, and at several other places.

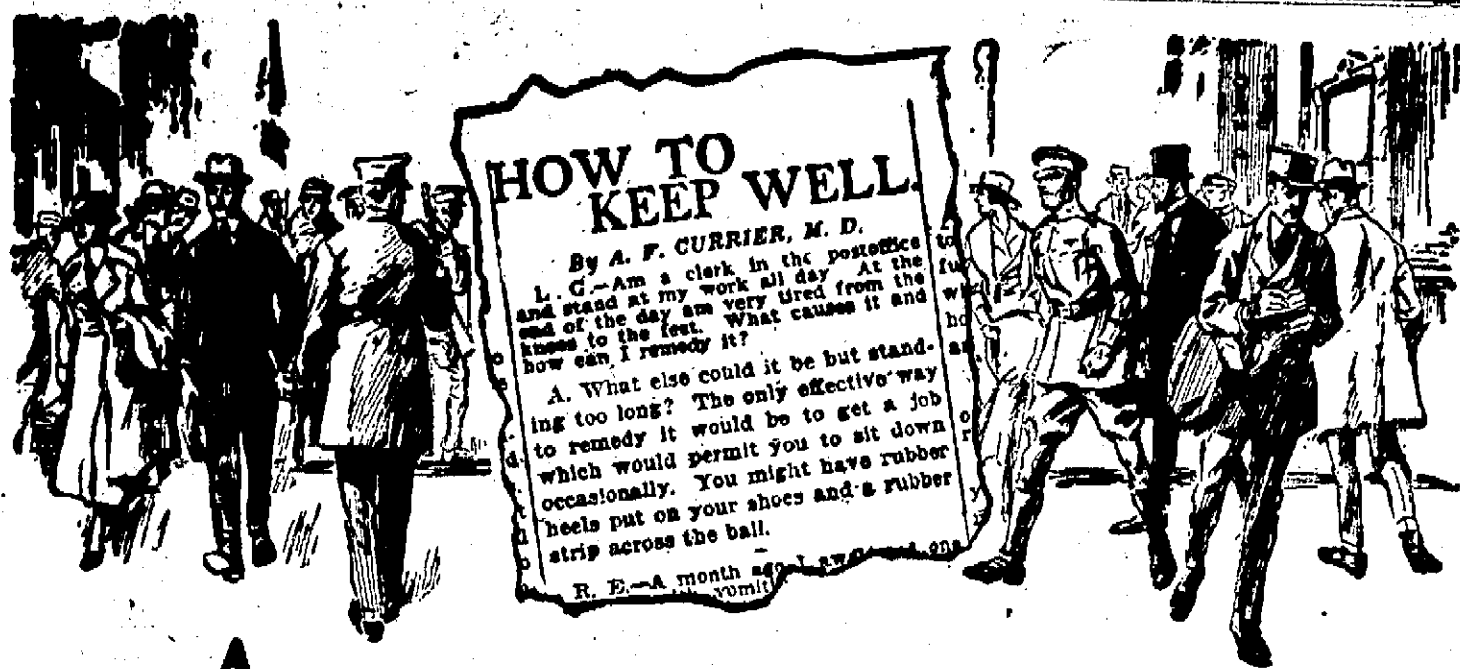

The boxing card for the smoker is of such exceptional quality that there should be a packed house that night.

Are you suffering from over fatigue?

FEW people realize the tremendous fatigue that comes from standing or walking all day on hard leather heels. See what Dr. A. F. Currier of the New York Globe says, in the clipping reproduced above, to a man who has to stand on his feet all day. Every moment you stand, every step you take on hard pavements and floors, is a tax levied on your energy.

What Dr. Currier says, applies to nearly every worker. Even though you work at a desk all day, you suffer from the jolts and jars of pounding around on hard floors and pavements.

You can protect yourself from these useless shocks. You can cushion your steps against the daily jolts and jars. O'Sullivan's Heels absorb the shocks that tire you out.

It is not just the rubber that gives O'Sullivan's Heels their springiness and wearing qualities.

Rubber, as you know, can be made hard and brittle as in fountain pens, or soft and crumbly as in pencil erasers. To secure the resiliency and durability of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are "compounded" with the best toughening agents known. The "compound" is then "cured" or baked under high pressure.

By this special process the greatest resiliency is combined with the utmost durability.

It is this special process that has, since the making of the first rubber heel, established O'Sullivan's Heels as the standard of rubber heel quality.

O'Sullivan's Heels are guaranteed to wear twice as long as ordinary rubber heels; and will outlast three pairs of leather heels.

Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

O'Sullivan's Heels are furnished in black, white or tan; for men, women and children. Specify O'Sullivan's Heels, and be sure that you get O'Sullivan's—avoid the disappointment of substitutes.

ON BOARD THE SUBMARINE O-8

Mayor Canfield, Postmaster DeWitt and Other Kingston Notables View Interior of One of Uncle Sam's Under Water Boats—Sub Here Until Friday.

The submarine O-8 of the United States Navy, is berthed off Kingston Point, having arrived here Tuesday afternoon on a recruiting mission and will remain until Friday. She is in charge of Lieut. A. E. Glenn, commanding officer, and Lieut. L. F. Safford, executive officer, with a crew of fourteen men. In war times she carries a crew of thirty, and three officers. The undersea boat is one of the division that was sent overseas leaving here July 11, 1918, and reaching the Azores, when the armistice was declared, much to the disappointment of officers and crew.

Tuesday afternoon Mayor Canfield, Postmaster DeWitt, President S. M. Watts of the common council, Lieut. R. C. Bitts, the Rev. P. C. Wynn and several others, made a tour of inspection of the submarine and were amazed at the amount of machinery she carried in her interior.

The Freeman reporter, who was one of the party, had his first glimpse of the interior of a submarine and was duly impressed by what he saw. His description, lacking as it does all technical details, may prove of interest to those unable to see the boat.

The big steel fish, 172 feet long, and painted a war gray, was berthed close to the pavilion dock, with a narrow plank leading out onto her deck. In charge of Lieut. Glenn and Lieut. Safford, the party walked along the narrow deck until they came to what looked like the covering of a coal hole commonly seen on all our best business streets.

Must Draw Belt Line.
This cover, or lid, was thrown back disclosing a ladder leading down into the depths of the monster. As the Freeman man glanced down the "coal hole" he thought to himself that while Uncle Sam may not draw the belt line to those applying for submarine service, as he watched Mayor Canfield descending the ladder he thought that it was a good thing that the mayor was not carrying as much avoidable as some residents of Kingston for it would have been a very undignified position for any mayor of any city to attempt to descend into the bowels of a submarine through a "coal hole" and get as far down as the legs and then unable to get just the belt line. It would look undignified for any man, not alone a mayor, to be half in and half out of one such an expression. And, to add to the undignified proceedings it would have been necessary to use a device to haul him out of the "coal hole."

But as stated before the mayor was not carrying any extra avoidable and neither was the rest of the party and they had no difficulty in descending into the interior of the boat.

The Torpedo Tubes.
The party made the descent into the interior of the boat through the bow hatchway, and as they stepped on the last rung of the ladder onto the floor of the submarine and glanced straight ahead they saw what looked like four better doors. All four doors were painted a colonial cream, and seemed to be built in the side of the bow of the boat.

Each door was numbered from 1 to 4. It was the first time the Freeman man had ever seen a torpedo tube, and what he could see of these four reminded him of the doors to a furnace which you throw open to throw in some coal. The lieutenant gave a very interesting description of how the torpedoes were fired; how they were loaded into the tubes; and how they were aimed. In discharging a torpedo the commanding officer who is standing in the center of the boat at the periscope aims the boat's bow at the target. In other words the boat itself is used as a gun in aiming. To fire the torpedo he presses a button near him.

The bow of a submarine is the business end of the boat. For not only are the torpedo tubes located here, but also the extra ammunition. In this case the extra ammunition is four torpedoes. In war times each tube contains a torpedo in addition to the other four making eight torpedoes carried. As each torpedo is valued at $10,000 when the eight are fired it means getting rid of $80,000 by pressing a button. A quick way of getting rid of money, and a quick exit for the unfortunates on any boat that the torpedo may hit.

The entire interior of the submarine is divided into compartments and each compartment is separated from the other by heavy walls and a small steel door which is water tight and which can be closed. If something should happen to the forward or the rear end of the submarine the crew can gather in one of the other compartments and close the doors and keep dry.

Always Duck Your Head.
Another thing, noticed was the air in the submarine which was good and not a bit close or smothery. It was explained that the boat carries enough air as it goes down to last eight hours, and if necessary to stay down longer they have a device for purifying the air, and a boat can stay down four days if absolutely necessary.

As the party descended into the submarine they received a warning from the lieutenants to duck their heads. It was a necessary warning for in some places, owing to the vast amount of machinery carried one has to watch where he walks or he will bump his head. In fact it looks as though the entire interior was one mass of intricate machinery. To run a submarine a man has to be a first class electrician and mechanic.

In spite of the large amount of machinery there seems to be plenty of room on board although with a full crew there is not any too much room at that.

Intricate Machinery.
And the machinery. There are instruments for registering the depth at which the boat lies under water. There are pumps for emptying the boat for raising and sinking her. In fact instruments to meet any and every emergency, it seemed. As the writer is not an electrician it would be impossible to describe the machinery, but those interested in electrical apparatus would be delighted to see the various parts of machinery and understand the working of each piece.

To add to the enjoyment of the party both lieutenants gave an able explanation as to the working of each part of the machinery, and of the various devices including the gyro compass, and the diesel engines.

One of the most interesting, if not the most interesting instrument on board The Freeman man, was the periscope. The periscope looks like a big brass tube that can be turned in any direction. At the bottom of the tube is a piece to apply the eyes. Though deep in the bowels of the boat one can distinctly see what is going on above the water. As nearly every one knows the periscope works with a series of mirror-like attachments. It is a wonderful invention and has to be seen to be appreciated.

The Sleeping Quarters.
Sleeping quarters for the men are not commodious, and as far as that is concerned the officers are packed away in a small space also. The only difference is that they have bunks built against the side of the boat while the crew sleeps on springs on which are placed the bed coverings and mattresses. These springs are hinged up to the ceiling when not in use.

The boat is built something like a New York city flat with one compartment leading into the other. Past the quarters of the crew and officers one steps into the kitchen compartment. There were getting supper ready and it smelled good. Uncle Sam always seems to it when possible to give his men the best there is in the eating line.

Cooks With Electricity.
All of the cooking is done by electricity, and it is a model kitchen and would interest every housewife. It is compact with everything to the hand of the cook.

The submarine is equipped with three periscopes instead of one and they are scattered through the boat and not located all in one compartment. The two rear compartments in the stern are devoted entirely to the motive power. The first compartment contains the machinery that drives the boat on top of the water, and the second and last apartment contains the diesel engines that drive her when submerged.

Can Submerge to 200 Feet.
Under the floor of the submarine and along the sides are the tanks for submerging. The party were shown the levers used in working the tanks. One for opening the tanks allowing the water to run in and fill them, and also the levers and machines for pumping the boat out. The water taken in is blown out by compressed air, it was explained.

The O-8 is tested to submerge to a depth of 200 feet, it was explained. Another feature pointed out was the ceiling and side of the boat. The material used is cork. This is to increase the warmth inside the boat and also it keeps the interior dry. During cold weather the boat is heated with electricity.

Those who are able to do so should make it a point to visit the submarine while it lays here. The interior is a wonderland, and it will soon be seen why the men in the submarine service are all selected men. Incidentally it might be added that both officers in charge of the boat are graduates of the naval academy.

AUTO BUS MEN OBJECT TO BOND

Raise Objections to Proposed Ordinance Regulating Auto Bus Lines in City, Which Require Owners to Give Indemnity Bonds.

That the autobus owners have decided objection to the proposed ordinance which the laws and rules committee of the common council is considering making it compulsory for all autobus line owners to furnish bonds before being granted a franchise to operate, was brought out at a meeting of the committee held on Tuesday evening. The proposed ordinance requires a bond of $5,000 for operating one car, and $2,000 for each additional car they operate.

At the hearing held that evening Howard C. Winne of Phoenix, who operates the Kingston-Phoenix bus line, was represented by Attorney John W. Eckert, and F. E. W. Dargatzis, who is in charge of the bus line.

The bus line owners have no objection to the establishment of terminals in the city, and the plan for terminals being worked out by committee of the Chamber of Commerce met with approval. The autobus owners believe that the proposed ordinance is too drastic in its provisions, and the size of the bond required is too large.

Secretary Hudson of the Chamber of Commerce outlined the plan calling for the proposed bus terminals, one uptown, one in the central section and one downtown.

S. E. Elkhay, a member of the Chamber of Commerce committee, stated that the downtown merchants favor the plan for terminals.

PREVENTION OF R. R. ACCIDENTS

A National Railroad Accident Prevention Drive to be Inaugurated October 18 and Closed October 31, is Planned.

The United States Railroad Administration is planning a campaign to prevent the large number of railroad accidents in the country, and for that purpose have set aside the last two weeks of this month to carry on an educational drive throughout the United States.

M. R. Coutant of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, and chairman of the safety committee, has issued the following letter to the general public:

To the Public:—Your attention is invited to the "National Railroad Accident Prevention Drive," beginning 12.01 a. m. October 18, and ending midnight, October 31, 1919.

This campaign against accidents is being participated in by all railroads, through the Safety Section of the U. S. Railroad Administration, and is for the benefit of the public as well as for railroad employees and their families.

It has been demonstrated that it is possible to eliminate a great majority of the accidents on our railroads, and both from a humanitarian and financial standpoint the safety movement is worthy of the support of all.

We believe this support can be best accomplished by publicity and in this manner we solicit your assistance in making a "No Accident" period from October 18 to 31, 1919.

A comparison of accidents with the same period of 1918 will be made.

It is requested that you help advance the movement by bringing it into prominence in such manner as you may deem most appropriate.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. THE TWO CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR AND WHAT THEY ARE STANDING FOR

P. A. CANFIELD, JR. EMANUEL METZGER.

Mr. Canfield is now mayor of Kingston. He will have been mayor for six years when this year has expired. He is a now a candidate for the fourth term. No other man who ever held the office of mayor sought or was nominated for a fourth term. Under his administration, the tax rate of the city has steadily climbed, until it is now at the highest point that it has ever reached. Under his administration no hope for a reduction of the tax rate may be looked for. He is an ardent supporter of many things that will mean the expenditure of more money than the people of the city must make up, in the form of taxes, so that the tax rate, if his administration is continued, and his recommendations followed, is bound to go up.

Just now there is a proposition pending to have the city spend not $5,000, but $11,000 for the services of a city forester and for a tree program for the city. Kingston has never had a city forester or tree doctor. In fact there are very few cities in the entire country that indulge in this luxury. If Mr. Metzger is elected, Kingston will not have one and will not spend this amount of money in each of the next five years, money that must be raised through the medium of taxation.

Mr. Canfield is an ardent supporter of the movement to have the Broadway crossing eliminated at this time, or to have the work commenced at this time. It has been said that the city's share of the cost of this work will be over $500,000. Other men, conservative and reasonable, assert that the city's share will not be less than $500,000. The cost of the improvement at the most conservative estimate will be from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. Part of this cost is to be met by the state of New York, part of it by the New York Central Railroad Company, and part of it by the city of Kingston. It is not necessary to point out that the paying of the city's share of this improvement, is going to be a tremendous burden on hosts of property owners and rent payers in Kingston. Mr. Metzger on the other hand, who has succeeded that ultimately this crossing will have to be eliminated, is against prosecuting the work at this time when the people of this city, in common with the people of all other cities are being taxed to pay the costs of the war which has just been fought and gloriously won. He says that this improvement can wait for a time, and when it is undertaken, the plan should embrace the elimination of all the railroad crossings in the city.

Mr. Canfield did not take any steps to allow the people of the city during the past year to vote on the question of whether they want Sunday baseball to be played in this city, as it is played in other cities on the Hudson river. There was no referendum on this question and the pleasure or displeasure of the people on this question was not officially inquired into.

If the men and the women of Kingston agree with Mayor Canfield, and if they feel that he is right in urging that the work of eliminating the Broadway crossing be commenced at this time, if they are willing to have the city called upon at this time to raise between $500,000 and $500,000 for the work, money that the people must pay in the form of taxes and increased rentals; if they believe that the city should inaugurate a policy of spending over $1,000,000 for the next five years for the care of the city trees, if they are indifferent as to the raising of the tax rate, then they should vote for Mayor Canfield and elect him for a fourth term in the office of mayor.

He believes in listening to the people and allowing the people to express themselves on the question as to whether or not Sunday baseball should be legalized in Kingston, as it has been in most other cities of the state, and if they are in favor of it, he will frame an ordinance allowing this Sunday afternoon diversion.

If the people of the city, the men and the women, like Mr. Metzger's platform, and feel that he has the right idea, if they want economy exercised in public affairs as they practice economy in their private lives, if they want a lowered tax rate, if they want a voice in shaping the municipal policy, then, why then, it becomes the duty of every man and woman to vote for Mr. Metzger and to see that he is elected.

Dr. George Veronoff, head of the psychological laboratories of the College de France, who unfolded recently before the French Congress of Science the results of an amazing series of experiments designed to restore youthful power to the aged. The sensational results of Dr. Veronoff's experiments have startled the medical and scientific world. Dr. Veronoff contends that during his course of experiments on the subject, which extended over a period of three years, he restored youthful energy to a man eighty years old, and during his life and vitality and volubility of a young man. The experiments involved the grafting of an interstitial gland of a young male monkey on to an old man in whom the gland has become atrophied. Old animals upon which the experiments were first tried apparently were restored to youth.

On St. Helena Napoleon was his own Barber

RIGHT to the end at St. Helena Napoleon kept his fastidious liking for a smooth chin. Bourienne, his biographer, says that he shaved himself with singular dexterity, one valet holding the glass, another the towel.

The greatest of all war strategists was so proud of his razors that he stipulated in his will that his splendid silver shaving set must be delivered, on his death, to his son, the King of Rome. How much more pleased Bonaparte would have been if he could have added to these beautiful razors the convenience and safety of the
